

Staying & Thriving

visit our website by clicking below
cete.osu.edu/staying-and-thriving

CALLING ALL BLACK WOMEN UNDERGRADUATES IN EHE

Staying & Thriving (SAT) is a program specifically designed to address the needs of and hold space for Black women students in the College of Education and Human Ecology. The SAT team is comprised of all Black women faculty and staff in the College who recognize the unique challenges and factors that influence your everyday college and lived experiences. Women who join the SAT program will have the opportunity to participate in the following:

- In-person and virtual professional development and mentorship activities
- Sister Circle Meetings (a safe space for Black women to support and empower one another)
- One-on-one mentorship with a Black woman graduate student
- Social gatherings and networking events
- Professional headshot (for junior and senior students only)

If you are interested in participating, please complete the enrollment form by clicking here. If you have questions or need additional information, please feel free to contact our team privately at stayingandthriving@osu.edu. Use "SATProgram" in the subject line of the email.

*The Staying and Thriving project is part of
The Ohio State University's Center on Education and Training for Employment, a translational research center within the College of Education and Human Ecology.*